

VELscope System Awarded to New York Dentist

Participated in Labor Day Ascent of New York's Mt. Marcy Organized by "Climb for a Cause"

WHITE ROCK, British Columbia—November 24, 2008—LED Dental announced today that it recently awarded a VELscope Oral Cancer Screening System to John Sorrentino, D.M.D. of Hopewell Junction, New York.

Dr. Sorrentino was one of several dentists and dental industry leaders who participated in a Labor Day ascent of Mt. Marcy near Lake Placid, New York. The event was organized by Climb for a Cause, a non-profit foundation that plans and runs mountain-climbing events to raise funding to provide dental care to disadvantaged residents of Guatemala and Cambodia. The weekend-long event includes a continuing education session featuring lectures by dental industry experts. LED Dental, one of several sponsors of the event, donated a VELscope system for a raffle. Dr. Sorrentino, one of the raffle winners, selected the VELscope system as his prize.

"What a wonderful weekend this turned out to be," said Dr. Sorrentino. "Not only did I get to contribute to a very special cause by participating in the climb, I am now able to enhance my oral cancer screening examinations and thus help further reduce the risk that any of my patients will develop oral cancer."
